Most Turkish children did not go to school, because there were too few schools for them to go to. The children who did spent most of their time studying the Koran.

The people living here (Turkey) had only one name.

Then the country became a republic.

Mustapha Kemal packed away old books. When in the fall children came to school they found books written in the same alphabet we use. The Arabic alphabet was no longer used. They also taught ABC's to grownups. Also he made every father choose a family name. He chose ATATURK.
